

NOVEMBER 2009: PRAY WITHOUT CEASING

Please join us in praying for the following cases and issues in which The Rutherford Institute (TRI) is involved:

1	2	3	4	5	6	7
That TRI's far-reaching work will continue to offer help and hope to those in need.	For the Montana high school valedictorian who was prevented by school officials from referencing God in her graduation speech.	For the Florida man who was prevented from handing out religious tracts at a rest stop area.	Praise: That residents at a public housing facility will be allowed to resume holding church services after TRI intervened.	For the 8-year-old girl who was prohibited from singing "Trading My Sorrows" at school because it references God.	For the Ohio tutor who was prohibited from praying with a distressed parent.	For the Massachusetts church whose expansion and outreach efforts have been thwarted by restrictive zoning ordinances.

Praise: That a Virginia jail has agreed to rescind its policy of censoring religious materials sent to inmates after TRI intervened.	For the Mississippi street preacher who was ordered to stop sharing his religious beliefs with people passing by.	For the Tennessee hospital worker who was reprimanded for saying "God bless you" to patients.	Veterans Day For the safety of our troops at home and abroad.	For the elementary student Christian club that was prohibited from putting up posters around school with the word "Jesus" on them.	For endowments and bequests to ensure the continuation of vital Rutherford Institute legal and educational programs.	For the Virginia pastor whose prison ministry has been prohibited from baptizing prisoners who convert to Christianity.
For the counselors at a 4-H camp who were instructed not to sing "Kumbaya" or say grace before meals with campers.	For the Nevada social worker who was allegedly fired for responding to a child's questions about Christianity.	For TRI as we appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court on behalf of the high school musical ensemble prohibited from performing an instrumental arrangement of " Ave Maria " at graduation.	For the Amish families in Michigan who face arrest because they refuse to compromise their religious way of life.	For TRI as we appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court on behalf of the high school valedictorian whose microphone was turned off after she mentioned God.	For TRI, its staff and attorneys as they continue to stand up for the God-given freedoms that we all cherish.	For students everywhere to be able to express their free speech rights on and off the school campus.

For the senior high school class that was told they could not use a Bible verse as a quote on their graduation ceremony invitations.	For the family of a fallen police officer whose memorial stone is allegedly being censored to remove Christian references engraved upon its surface.	For Raymond Frantz, the pro-life activist who was arrested for distributing religious pamphlets on a public sidewalk.	That educators would not be discriminated against for studying at religious universities.	Thanksgiving Day "Enter His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise. Be thankful to Him, and bless His name." — Psalm 100:4	For TRI as we appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court on behalf of a Pennsylvania mom who was prevented from reading from her son's favorite book, the Bible, at school.	For the New Jersey rabbis who have been cited for violating zoning laws because they hold prayer and worship meetings in their homes.
